

SENATOR SWANSON READS "FAREWELL"

Washington's Address Features the Senate Observance of the National Holiday.

Washington's Birthday was observed in the Senate. Senator Swanson of Virginia read the farewell address immediately after the session had been opened with prayer.

The galleries were crowded. Many teachers from the West, on their way to Richmond, were among the spectators. Miss Helen Botes and Miss Alexander occupied seats in the executive gallery.

In presenting Senator Swanson, Vice President Marshall said:

"Senators, there are some of us who believe that the men who made and founded the American Republic were guided by a hand that was not human. Some of those who helped to found the republic, though dead, yet speak to their children. Among all the illustrious dead whose shades loom large in the Valhalla of the American Republic, there is none of such stupendous proportions as the shade of George Washington."

"In accordance with the order of the Senate, the Senator from Virginia, Mr. Swanson, will now read the farewell address of the first President of the United States."

SNOW REMOVAL IS BEING CONTINUED

Superintendent Paxton Puts to Work 250 "White Wings" at Street Crossings of City.

By order of J. W. Paxton, superintendent of the street cleaning department, 250 "white wings" were put to work this morning removing the snow from the crossings in the business and residential sections of the city. The street cleaning machines and an additional force of employees may be put to work later in the day in case of a heavier fall of snow.

The work of removing the snowfall of February 12 from the business section between Fifth and seventh streets and Pennsylvania avenue and H streets northwest has been completed. An extra force was employed Thursday, Friday and Saturday night. The cost was between $100 and $150. The money was obtained from the general appropriation of $200,000 for the street cleaning department.

Payment of the extra force which worked Saturday night will be made tomorrow. The men who worked Thursday and Friday nights were paid Saturday afternoon.

Indiana Storm Swept

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23.—Indiana and Indianapolis are today in the grip of the worst storm of the winter, according to reports from interurban and city traction sources. Because of a high wind and a heavy drifting snow, which continued from the morning, this city is isolated. Interurban cars can get no farther than the city limits, and few of the city cars are running—none on schedule time.

The high wind and the snow have caused much suffering, though the mercury is 11 above. It was above earlier today.

Two Blizzards Raging

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Two blizzards are raging west of Chicago today, badly hampering traffic and communication. The center of one of the storms was in Arkansas, and the fifty-two-mile-an-hour wind, carrying sleet and snow, was raging in Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma. Near-zero temperature prevailed, and the other storm centered in Montana and is sweeping eastward.

Profit-Sharing Plan

For Hahn Shoe Stores

A profit-sharing plan in which all clerks of the three shoe stores of William Hahn & Co. will participate will become effective soon as the result of arrangements now being completed by the firm and its employees.

The scheme to share the profits of the three stores with the clerks was inaugurated Saturday night at an enthusiastic meeting of the employees in the Hahn store at Seventh and K streets northwest. A committee is now formulating details of the profit-sharing plan. The good of the service was discussed at some length by various clerks, and an interesting feature of the discussion was the remarks of William J. Tuttle, representing the O'Sullivan Rubber Company, who spoke on "Shoes and Rubber Heels."

A fine of $100 or 120 days in jail was given to Richard Somerville, colored, found guilty today in the Police Court of selling hours contrary to law. He was arrested by policeman J. G. Delamater at 1215 Jackson court.

Governor Stuart and Staff to Aid Celebration in Honor of Nation's First President.

Washington and his distinguished contemporaries journeyed to Alexandria and tarried at the fine old tavern, which is now the site of a curiosity shop.

Over at R. E. Lee Camp Hall the Confederate Veterans are holding open house.

The Washington-Virginia Railway is operating trains every few minutes and bags are making the air resound with rag-time airs.

The battery from Fort Myer rolled into town about 10 o'clock, and the horses and caissons were left under a small guard while the troops dismounted and made their way about the streets in company with the men of the Fifth Cavalry who preceded them through the snow.

About 11 o'clock the street cleaning department put men to work to keep clean the highways along which the parade will pass.

At Washington and Oronoco streets, where the Presidential reviewing stand is located, the snow hanging from trees formed a picturesque setting for the principal point of the demonstration.

It is the first time in years that King Winter has lent its aid in making the celebration more beautiful.
